

From the Editor-in-Chief

Editorial

Welcome to a special issue of the journal, which is considered as the third issue of the 11th Volume. It is our great pleasure to inform our respected authors, referees, and audience that ISeCure is currently one of the publishers of the International conference on communication, management and information technology (ICCMIT) conference. In this issue, we publish some selected regular papers accepted to be presented at ICCMIT'19 as well as a single page per paper incorporating the translation of the title and abstract in Persian, to be used by Persian indexing centers.

ICCMIT is organized by the Universal Society for Applied Research (USAR), and is held annually in one of the European countries. ICCMIT'19 was held in Vienna, Austria from 26th to 28th March. Having 298 accepted papers out of 720 submitted ones, the acceptance ratio of the articles has been 26%. The accepted papers were presented in two approaches: physically and virtually. It should be noted that over 300 reviewers assisted the reviewing process, and from 27 countries participated in ICCMIT'19. All the papers published in this special issue underwent ICCMIT'19 peer-review process involving two blinded reviewers per paper and the conference Program Committee acceptance decision. ISeCure has not enforced any extra review process and so, all rights and responsibilities of the papers content are reserved for the respected authors and ICCMIT'19 Program Committee. It is our policy to welcome and publish any criticism and correction on the published papers in a particular section of the coming issues.

Finally, I would like to sincerely thank ICCMIT'19 authors for their submitted research papers, reviewers for their valuable and critical reviews, and in particular the Program Committee for their provision of opportunity and cooperation; which helped us to keep the quality of ISeCure at its current standard.
